Dear Justice Cook:

I wanted to write to thank you for sharing the new Texas Lawyers Creed with me and for sending enough copies for distribution to the student body here. I have distributed the Creed and a copy of your cover letter along with my own admonition that the students read and seriously consider the contents of the Creed as they embark upon the legal profession.

Thank you for all of your work and efforts in bringing the Creed about. It certainly was something that was needed in Texas and I hope will prove to be influential in other jurisdictions as well.

Sincerely yours,
